Предлагаемое пособие по грамматике английского языка является одновременно кратким систематическим справочником, содержащим четкие объяснения правил употребления грамматики, и сборником упражнений.

Особенностью книги является ее структура, в соответствии с которой левая сторона разворота содержит правила и упражнения, а правая — примеры и ключи к упражнениям. Основополагающим принципом построения книги выступает опора на родной язык, что делает работу с грамматикой более эффективной и предупреждает возникновение типичных ошибок.

Начало каждого раздела предваряют таблицы, в которых схематично изложены основные положения соответствующей грамматической темы, что дает возможность учащимся повторить правило, прежде чем приступить к выполнению упражнений. Параллельно таблицам на правом развороте книги даны примеры применения этого правила.

По аналогии с теоретическим материалом, практические упражнения и ключи к ним даны параллельно друг к другу, что упрощает работу с книгой и делает ее полезной для аудиторной и самостоятельной работы.

В конце крупных разделов помещен урок на повторение, содержащий упражнения повышенной трудности, которые могут быть использованы для закрепления изученных тем и контроля. Таким образом, структура пособия позволит не только повторить изученный ранее грамматический материал, приобрести необходимые умения и навыки в области английской грамматики, но и оценить уровень сформированности грамматической компетенции учащихся. В плане преподавания пособие также может быть полезным при подготовке контрольных и самостоятельных работ.

Лексическое наполнение упражнений позволяет расширить словарный запас и использовать предлагаемые к изучению грамматические конструкции в ситуациях реального общения.

Книга четко организована, содержит ясные и наглядные объяснения и может быть использована как на уроке английского языка, так и для самостоятельной работы.

В издании использованы материалы книги авторов «Секреты английской грамматики».

Упражнение 18

Прочтите рассказ и вставьте данные глаголы в Past Indefinite.

"I kept my secret for five long years," the old woman said to the newspaper reporter. The year was 1819, and she was a hundred years old. The reporter thought that she didn't look older than 60 or 70.

The woman's name was Phoebe Hessel. When she was 15, she fell in love with a young soldier, William Golding. Golding's regiment went to the West Indies. Phoebe didn't want to be separated from him, and there was only one way she could follow him. She dressed in men's clothing and joined another regiment which she knew was also going to the West Indies.

We'll never know how she kept her secret for so long. She stayed in the West Indies for five years. However, in 1733, her lover's regiment went back to Europe. There was only one way she could follow him again; somehow she had to get out of the army. Phoebe went to an officer's wife and told her the truth. By the time Phoebe came back to England, her lover was also there. He had been wounded and was in a military hospital, close to death. She nursed him back to health. They got married shortly afterwards. They were very happy together and lived in Brighton for almost fifty years, until Golding died in 1783.

Phoebe had eight children, seven of whom died in their childhood. She earned her living by selling fruit. In 1788, she met her second husband, William Hessel. He was a fisherman.

In 1821, at the age of 102, she met King George IV. He gave her a small pension and said that she was "a jolly good fellow".

She had begun working for the company many years before, after she had finished school. She had remained unmarried all those years, and because she worked at night and slept in the daytime it was very difficult for her to find a husband.

At first, after Guy and Ralph had explained to her what they wanted to do and had asked her to write a letter to Ray, Grace refused to do it...

She remembered the time she had got acquainted with Ray. He wanted to marry her. But she had just finished school then and had started to work for the telephone company; she was very young then and didn't want to marry anybody. Time passed. During all those years she had seen him a few times but only a polite word had passed between them, and each time he looked sadder and sadder.

Finally she agreed to write the letter for Guy and Ralph.

The next day Guy and Ralph were in the post-office at 4 o'clock. By that time there was a large crowd in the post-office. When Ray came in and saw a letter in his box, he looked at it in surprise. He opened the box, took out the blue envelope and went to the corner of the room to read it. When he finished, he behaved like mad. He smiled happily and ran out of the room before Guy and Ralph had time to say anything to stop him...

When Guy and Ralph ran into the room where Grace worked, Ray was standing near the girl with the widest and happiest smile they had ever seen on his face. It was clear they hadn't spoken a word yet...

1. Maria Campos has become a rising star in the Progressive Party. She began her political career while she was studying at Woodsville University. When she first stood as a candidate for Woodsville, she didn’t win many votes — Woodsville is a traditional town, and no woman had ever been a candidate there before. “They elected (had elected, had been electing) the same man, year after year,” she told me, “and they just laughed at me when I got up to speak.” But she was the winning candidate in the next election, and since then she has shown herself to be a hard hitting speaker who has never been afraid to say what she thinks.

In recent months she has been fighting (has fought) hard to improve the position of women. She told me the reason. “I began this campaign because women were continually writing (had been writing) to me, complaining of how their husbands treated (were treating, had treated) them. Sometimes their husbands threw (had thrown) them out of the family home and left them without any possessions. The law always took the husband’s side in such cases.”

When I interviewed Maria Campos last week, she was planning a new campaign on this question. She had already persuaded some of the country’s most important legal experts to support her. “The law must be changed,” she said to me.

2. There was a man sitting there and as I walked up he welcomed me and asked me what kind of drink I would like... I chose a long drink and sat down. He was a tall, thin man, browned by the sun. I didn’t know his name, but when we had been talking for a short time, another man came in who told me he was the secretary, and called my friend George.

“Have you heard from your wife yet?” he asked him.

The other’s eyes brightened.

“Yes, I had letters by this mail. She is having a pleasant time.”

“... (she, to tell) you not to worry?”

George ... (to give) a little laugh, but was I mistaken in thinking that there ... (to be) in it a sound of sorrow?

“In fact she But that’s easier said than done. Of course I know she wants a holiday, and I’m glad she should have it, but it’s hard on me.” He ... (to turn) to me. “You see, this ... (to be) the first time I ... (ever, to be) separated from my wife, and I ... (to be) like a lost dog without her.”

“How long ... (you, to be) married?”

“Five minutes.”

The secretary of the club ... (to laugh).

“Don’t be a fool, George. You ... (to be) married eight years.”

After we ... (to talk) a little, George, looking at his watch, ... (to say) he must go and change his clothes for dinner and ... (to leave) us.

... “We all ... (to ask) him as much as we can, now that he ... (to be) alone,” his secretary ... (to say) to me. “He ... (to be) so terribly miserable since his wife ... (to go) home.”

3. The rain ... (to fall) when she ... (to awake) and it ... (to be) impossible to go out. During tea Guy ... (to be) silent and abstracted. She ... (to get) her sewing and ... (to begin) to work. Guy ... (to sit) down to read such of the English papers as he ... (not, yet, to go) through from cover to cover; but he ... (to be) restless; he ... (to walk) up and down the large room and then ... (to go) out on the veranda. He ... (to look) at the steady rain. What ... (he, to think) of? Doris ... (to be) vaguely uneasy.

It ... (to be) not till after dinner that he ... (to speak). During the simple meal he ... (to exert) himself to be his usual gay self, but the exertion ... (to be) apparent. The rain ... (to cease) and the night (to be) starry. They ... (to sit) on the veranda. In order not to attract insects they ... (to put) out the lamp in the sitting-room. <...> “Doris, I ... (to have got) something to say to you,” he ... (to say) suddenly.

“Did she tell you not to worry?”

George gave a little laugh, but was I mistaken in thinking that there was in it a sound of sorrow?

“In fact she did. But that’s easier said than done. Of course I know she wants a holiday, and I’m glad she should have it, but it’s hard on me.” He turned to me. “You see, this is the first time I have ever been separated from my wife, and I am like a lost dog without her.”

“How long have you been married?”

“Five minutes.”

The secretary of the club laughed.

“Don’t be a fool, George. You have been married eight years.”

After we had talked a little, George, looking at his watch, said he must go and change his clothes for dinner and left us.

... “We all ask him as much as we can, now that he is alone,” his secretary said to me. “He has been so terribly miserable since his wife went home.”

4. One afternoon I ... (to drive) over to the farm; I ... (not, to see) Sonia for six weeks because her children ... (to be) home for the holidays and I ... (to loathe) her children. I ... (to miss) her, she ... (to be) never boring. The house-boy ... (to say) she ... (to be) down the river with Dr. Frank. I ... (to wander) down the path, but they ... (not, to be) in sight. I ... (to wait) for about eight minutes and ... (to walk) back. All the natives except the house-boy ... (to go) to sleep in their huts. I ... (not, to see) the house-boy for some time, and when I did I ... (to be) frightened by the fear on his face.

I ... (to come) round by the old ox-stalls, now deserted — since Sonia ... (to abandon) farming, even with a tractor, far less a span of oxen. The house-boy ... (to appear) then and ... (to whisper) to me, “Baas Van der Merwe ... (to come). He ... (to look) in the window.”

I ... (to walk) quietly round the stalls till I ... (to have) a view of the house, and ... (to see) a man of about fifty, undernourished-looking, in khaki shorts and shirt. He ... (to stand) on a box by the drawing-room window. He ... (to have) his hand on the curtain, parting it, and ... (to look) steadily into the empty room.

“Go down to the river and warn them,” I ... (to say) to the boy.

He ... (to turn) to go, but “Boy!” ... (to shout) the man. The house-boy rapidly ... (to go) towards the voice. <...>

I ... (to go) to look for Sonia.

I ... (to get) down to the river just as they ... (to land).

5. Andrew Dale ... (to attend) an international conference in Barcelona. It ... (to be) the first time he ... (to be) to the city. Like most people, he ... (to hear) a lot about the Rambles, and ... (to be) eager to go there. So he ... (to study) the conference programme and ... (to convince) himself that he ... (not, to want) to hear old Professor Thimble’s lecture the next morning. (When he ... (to be) a young man, Thimble ... (to develop) a theory about a possible relationship between the Basque language and certain Red Indi dialects. He ... (to give) the same lecture on the subject ever since.

4. One afternoon I drove over to the farm; I hadn’t seen Sonia for six weeks because her children had been home for the holidays and I loathed her children. I had missed her, she was never boring. 5. Andrew Dale was attending an international conference in Barcelona. It was the first time he had been to the city. Like most people, he had heard a lot about the Rambles, and was eager to go there. So he studied the conference programme and convinced himself that he didn’t want to hear old Professor Thimble’s lecture the next morning. (When he was a young man, Thimble developed a theory about a possible relationship between the Basque language and certain Red Indian dialects. He had been giving the same lecture on the subject ever since.

Andrew ... (to have) just one tiny problem: he ... (to be) confined to a wheelchair, the result of an accident on the rugby field when he ... (to be) at school. What he ... (to need) ... (to be) someone to go with him to the Rambles. That evening, at dinner, he .. (to sit) next to Tony Willingham, a man he ... (to meet) once or twice before. It ... (to turn out) that Tony ... (to know) Barcelona very well, and ... (to be) full of enthusiasm for the sights of the Rambles and the nearby Gothic Quarter. Andrew ... (to decide) to try his luck. He ... (to bring) the conversation round to the subject of Professor Thimble and his theories.

“Well, old Thimble ... (to do) a lot of work on Basque, <...> but between you and me, I ... (not, to think) he ... (to have) anything new to say. <...> It ... (to be) a crime to stay in a stuffy lecture hall when the sun ... (to shine).” <...>

Andrew had just one tiny problem: he was confined to a wheelchair, the result of an accident on the rugby field when he was at school. What he needed was someone to go with him to the Rambles. That evening, at dinner, he sat next to Tony Willingham, a man he had met once or twice before. It turned out that Tony knew Barcelona very well, and was full of enthusiasm for the sights of the Rambles and the nearby Gothic Quarter. Andrew decided to try his luck. He brought the conversation round to the subject of Professor Thimble and his theories.

“Well, old Thimble has done a lot of work on Basque, <...> but between you and me, I don’t think he has anything new to say. <...> It is a crime to stay in a stuffy lecture hall when the sun is shining.” <...>

The two truants set off after breakfast, but first they waited, like guilty schoolboys, until the other conference delegates had gone off to Thimble’s lecture. Tony wheeled Andrew out into the street and hailed a taxi. To Tony’s surprise, it took only a few seconds to fold the wheelchair and put it in the boot, while Andrew, using a pair of walking-sticks, eased himself into the front seat. When they got to the Rambles, the taxi-driver (a rare man who actually understood about such things) reassembled the chair, and soon Tony and Andrew were strolling down the centre of the avenue, enjoying the morning sunshine and the colourful displays of the flower sellers.

MUST, TO HAVE TO, TO BE TO

1. Модальный глагол to have to выражает необходимость, обусловленную обстоятельствами.

Сравните следующие примеры:

1. «Курить в офисе запрещено. Вы должны выходить», — сказал управляющий.
Так как курить в офисе запрещено, мне приходится выходить.
2. «Вы должны следить за детьми как следует», — сказала миссис Фрэнк няне.
Так как она не может позволить себе няню, ей приходится присматривать за детьми самой.

PRESENT	PAST	FUTURE
don't (doesn't) have to do	didn't have to do	won't have to do
Do (does)... have to do?	Did... have to do?	Will... have to do?

2. To be to is used to denote a planned action.

Compare the following examples:

"You must look after the children properly," Mrs. Frank said to the nurse.

As she can't afford a nurse she has to look after the children herself.

"What am I to do?" the young woman asked the mistress of the house.

"You are to look after the children and teach them good manners."

TO BE TO, WAS (WERE) TO

PRESENT	PAST
I'm to do it	I was to do it
I'm not to do it	I wasn't to do it
Am I to do it?	Was I to do it?

I have to get up early on Monday as I go to the swimming pool before work. • Мне приходится вставать рано по понедельникам, так как я хожу в бассейн перед работой.

I had to phone him yesterday as I didn't know for sure what to do. • Мне пришлось звонить ему вчера, так как я в точности не знал, что делать.

I'll have to go there again as I left some necessary papers there. • Мне опять придется туда идти, так как я забыл там важные бумаги.

2. To be to выражает заранее запланированное действие.

Сравните следующие примеры:

«Вы должны следить за детьми как следует», — сказала миссис Фрэнк няне.

Так как она не может позволить себе няню, ей приходится присматривать за детьми самой.

«Что я должна делать?» — спросила молодая женщина хозяйку дома.

«Вы должны следить за детьми и учить их хорошим манерам».

TO BE TO, WAS (WERE) TO

• As we have agreed I'm to meet Walter at the airport.
Как мы договорились, я должен встретить Уолтера в аэропорту.

• As we had agreed I was to meet Walter at six.

1. The late Henry Ground's funeral was a very jolly affair. Relatives who hadn't spoken for years smiled at each other and promised to stay in touch. <...> Lying in his coffin, Henry was probably enjoying himself too. Once more, and for the last time on this earth, he was the centre of attention. <...> Everyone had a favourite story to tell about Henry. <...>

"Did you hear about the practical joke he played when he was a student, the one with the road-menders? Some workmen were digging a hole in the road. First, Henry phoned the police and told them that some STUDENTS were digging a hole in the road, and that he didn't think it was a very funny thing to do. Then he went to the workmen, and told them that some students had dressed up as policemen and were coming to tell them to stop digging the hole. Well, you can imagine what happened! Total confusion!" <...>

2. Skelton got an uncomfortable impression that she was terrified of Grange. It was odd, because to all appearances he wasn't a bad sort. He was knowledgeable and far from stupid; and though you couldn't have said that his manner was cordial, it was plain that he was ready to be of what service he could. <...>

Skelton was startled. It was a strange house he had come into in a strange manner. He went into the overcrowded sitting-room and there found his host. He had been worried by the evident poverty of the establishment and he felt that the Granges could ill afford even the small expense he must be putting them to. But he had already formed the impression that Grange was a quick-tempered, susceptible man and he didn't know how he would take an offer to help. He made up his mind to risk it.

3. Skelton ... (to go) to bed, but he ... (can, not) sleep. Though the heat ... (to be) oppressive, it ... (not, to be) the heat that ... (to keep) him awake. There ... (to be) something horrible about that house and those two people who ... (to live) in it. He ... (not, to know) what it ... (to be) that ... (to affect) him with this peculiar uneasiness, but this he ... (to know), that he ... (to be) heartily thankful to be out of it and away from them. Grange ... (to talk) a good deal about himself, but he ... (to know) no more of him than he ... (to learn) at the first glance. To all appearances he ... (to be) just the commonplace planter who ... (to fall) upon evil days.

4. Grange's bitterness ... (to be) greater than ... (can) be explained by his financial embarrassment. He ... (to have) little good to say of any of the white men in the colony. He ... (to seem) to think that they ... (to despise) him because he ... (to be) native-born. He ... (to be) a sour, disappointed fellow, and a conceited one. He ... (to show) Skelton his books. There ... (to be) not many of them, but they ... (to be) the best on the whole that English literature ... (can) show. He ... (to read) them over and over again; but it ... (to look) as though he ... (to learn) from them neither charity nor loving-kindness, it ... (to look) as though their beauty ... (to leave) him unmoved; and to know them so well only ... (to make) him self-complacent. His exterior, which ... (to be) so hearty and English, ... (to seem) to have little relation to the man within; you ... (can, not) resist the suspicion that it ... (to mask) a very sinister being.

5. "I ... (not, to speak) to a white person for two years. I ... (to long) for a good old talk," Mrs. Grange said.

Skelton ... (to tell) her who he ... (to be) and what he ... (to do), but he ... (to discover) that she ... (to question) his boy and already ... (to know) all about him. <...>

"I ... (not, to be) to England for sixteen years," she said.

"You don't mean that? Why, I ... (to think) all you planters ... (to go) home every five years at the longest."

3. Skelton went to bed, but he couldn't sleep. Though the heat was oppressive, it wasn't the heat that kept him awake. There was something horrible about that house and those two people who lived in it. He didn't know what it was that affected him with this peculiar uneasiness, but this he knew, that he would be heartily thankful to be out of it and away from them. Grange had talked a good deal about himself, but he knew no more of him than he had learned at the first glance. To all appearances he was just the commonplace planter who had fallen upon evil days.

4. Grange's bitterness was greater than could be explained by his financial embarrassment. He had little good to say of any of the white men in the colony. He seemed to think that they despised him because he was native-born. He was a sour, disappointed fellow, and a conceited one. He had shown Skelton his books. There were not many of them, but they were the best on the whole that English literature can show. He had read them over and over again; but it looked as though he had learnt from them neither charity nor loving-kindness, it looked as though their beauty had left him unmoved; and to know them so well had only made him self-complacent. His exterior, which was so hearty and English, seemed to have little relation to the man within; you couldn't resist the suspicion that it masked a very sinister being.

5. "I haven't spoken to a white person for two years. I've been longing for a good old talk," Mrs. Grange said.

Skelton told her who he was and what he did, but he discovered that she had questioned his boy and already knew all about him. <...>

"I haven't been to England for sixteen years," she said.

"You don't mean that? Why, I thought all you planters went home every five years at the longest."

6. Skelton ... (to have) a notion that in the searching look that Grange ... (to give) him ... (to be) mistrust and animosity. It ... (to flash) through his mind that somehow he ... (to discover) that Mrs. Grange ... (to talk) to him and perhaps ... (to say) things that ... (should/to be) left unsaid.

7. For long months before it ... (to be) due, these people ... (to plan) their leave, and when they ... (to get) off the ship they ... (to be) in such spirits they ... (can) hardly contain themselves. London. Shops and clubs and theatres and restaurants. <...> It ... (to swallow) them. A strange turbulent city, not hostile but indifferent, and they ... (to be) lost in it. They ... (to have) no friends. They ... (to have) nothing in common with the acquaintances they ... (to make). They ... (to be) more lonely than in the jungle. It ... (to be) a relief when at the theatre they ... (to run) across someone they ... (to know) in the East (and perhaps ... (to be) bored stiff by or ... (to dislike)) and they ... (can) fix up an evening together and have a good laugh and tell one another what a grand time they ... (to have) and talk of common friends and at last confide to one another a little shyly that they ... (not, to be) sorry when their leave ... (to be) up and they ... (to be) once again in harness.

8. Morton ... (to wait) for us when we ... (to reach) Cairo's. He ... (to look) very sunburned in his evening clothes. Perhaps it ... (to be) because I ... (to know) that they ... (to be) wrapped away in a tin box with moth-balls for four years that I ... (to feel) he ... (not/to look) quite at home in them. He ... (to be) certainly more at ease in khaki shorts. Charlie Bishop ... (to be) a good talker and ... (to like) to hear himself speak. Morton ... (to be) shy. I ... (to give) him a cocktail and ... (to order) some champagne. I ... (to have) a feeling that he ... (to be) glad to dance, but I ... (not, to be) quite sure whether it ... (to occur) to him to ask Margery. I ... (to be) acutely conscious that we all ... (to belong) to another generation.

9. "I ... (not/to sleep) for a fortnight," said Charlie.

I ... (to express) regret but ... (not/to ask) the reason and we ... (to walk) for a little in silence. I ... (to presume) that he ... (to come) with me in order to talk to me of what ... (to happen), but I ... (to feel) that he ... (must) take his own time.

6. Skelton had a notion that in the searching look that Grange gave him was mistrust and animosity. It flashed through his mind that somehow he had discovered that Mrs. Grange had been talking to him and perhaps had said things that should have been left unsaid.

7. For long months before it was due, these people planned their leave, and when they got off the ship they were in such spirits they could hardly contain themselves. London. Shops and clubs and theatres and restaurants. <...> It swallowed them. A strange turbulent city, not hostile but indifferent, and they were lost in it. They had no friends. They had nothing in common with the acquaintances they made. They were more lonely than in the jungle. It was a relief when at the theatre they ran across someone they had known in the East (and perhaps been bored stiff by or disliked) and they could fix up an evening together and have a good laugh and tell one another what a grand time they were having and talk of common friends and at last confide to one another a little shyly that they wouldn't be sorry when their leave was up and they were once again in harness.

8. Morton was waiting for us when we reached Cairo's. He looked very sunburned in his evening clothes. Perhaps it was because I knew that they had been wrapped away in a tin box with moth-balls for four years that I felt he didn't look quite at home in them. He was certainly more at ease in khaki shorts. Charlie Bishop was a good talker and liked to hear himself speak. Morton was shy. I gave him a cocktail and ordered some champagne. I had a feeling that he would be glad to dance, but I wasn't quite sure whether it would occur to him to ask Margery. I was acutely conscious that we all belonged to another generation.

9. "I haven't slept for a fortnight," said Charlie.

I expressed regret but didn't ask the reason and we walked for a little in silence. I presumed that he had come with me in order to talk to me of what had happened, but I felt that he must take his own time.

I ... (to be) anxious to show my sympathy, but afraid of saying the wrong things; I ... (not, to want) to seem eager to extract confidences from him. I ... (not, to know) how to give him a lead. I ... (to be) sure he ... (not, to want) one. <...> I ... (to imagine) that he ... (to choose) his words.

10. Two or three days after this, since it ... (to be) Pritchard's night out and he ... (to have) no engagement, Richard Harenger ... (to dine) by himself at his club. A page-boy ... (to come) to him and ... (to tell) him that they just ... (to ring up) from his flat to say that he ... (to go) out without his keys and should they be brought along to him in a taxi? He ... (to put) his hand to his pocket. It ... (to be) a fact. By a singular chance he ... (to forget) to replace them when he ... (to change) into a blue serge suit before coming to dinner. His intention ... (to be) to play bridge, but it ... (to be) an off-night at the club and there ... (to seem) little chance of a decent game; it ... (to occur) to him that it ... (to be) a good opportunity to see a picture that he ... (to hear) talked about, so he ... (to send) back the message by the page that he ... (to call) for the keys himself half an hour later.

11. I ... (to look) at him reflectively Suddenly he ... (to lean) forwards and ... (to give) me a stiff courtly bow. I ... (to have) a ridiculous habit of flushing when I ... (to be) taken aback and now I ... (to feel) my cheeks redden. I ... (to be) startled. I ... (to stare) at him for several minutes as though he were a dummy. He ... (must, to think) me extremely rude. I ... (to nod) with a good deal of embarrassment and ... (to look) away. Fortunately at that moment the waiter ... (to hand) me a dish. To the best of my belief I never ... (to see) the fellow before. I ... (to ask) myself whether his bow ... (to be) due to my insistent stare, which ... (to make) him think that he ... (to meet) me somewhere, or whether I really ... (to run) across him and completely ... (to forget). I ... (to have) a bad memory for faces and I ... (to have) in this case the excuse that he ... (to look) exactly like a great many other people. <...>

I was anxious to show my sympathy, but afraid of saying the wrong things; I didn't want to seem eager to extract confidences from him. I didn't know how to give him a lead. I was sure he didn't want one. <...> I imagined that he was choosing his words.

11. I looked at him reflectively. Suddenly he leaned forwards and gave me a stiff courtly bow. I have a ridiculous habit of flushing when I am taken aback and now I felt my cheeks redden. I was startled. I had been staring at him for several minutes as though he were a dummy. He must have thought me extremely rude. I nodded with a good deal of embarrassment and looked away. Fortunately at that moment the waiter was handing (handed) me a dish. To the best of my belief I had never seen the fellow before. I asked myself whether his bow was due to my insistent stare, which made him think that he had met me somewhere, or whether I had really run across him and completely forgotten. I have a bad memory for faces and I had in this case the excuse that he looked exactly like a great many other people. <...>

He ... (to finish) his dinner before me. He ... (to get) up, but on his way out ... (to stop) at my table. He ... (to stretch) out his hand. "How do you do?" he ... (to say). "I ... (not, to recognize) you when you first ... (to come) in." <...>

It ... (to be) evident that he ... (to know) me and evident too that he ... (to have) no notion that I also ... (not, to know) him.

12. Presently I ... (to finish) my dinner and ... (to go) into the lounge. He ... (to sit) in a large arm-chair and when he ... (to see) me he ... (to call) a waiter. I ... (to sit) down. The waiter ... (to come) up and he ... (to order) coffee and liqueurs. He ... (to speak) Italian very well. I ... (to wonder) by what means I ... (can) find out who he ... (to be) without offending him. People ... (to be) always a little disconcerted when you ... (not, to recognize) them. <...> The excellence of his Italian ... (to recall) him to me. I ... (to remember) who he ... (to be) and ... (to remember) at the same time that I ... (not, to like) him.

13. I ... (can/not) surmise what ... (to induce) him to invite me to have coffee with him. It ... (to be) true he ... (to be) alone, but I ... (should, to suppose) he ... (to find) his thoughts excellent company, and I ... (can, not) believe he ... (to imagine) that I ... (to have) anything to say that ... (to interest) him. Nevertheless I ... (can, not) but see that he ... (to do) his dreary best to be affable. He ... (to remind) me of where we ... (to meet) last and we ... (to talk) for a moment of common friends in London. He ... (to ask) me how I ... (to come) to be in Rome at this season and I ... (to tell) him. He ... (to volunteer) the information that he ... (to arrive) from Brindisi. Our conversation ... (not, to go) easily and I ... (to make) up my mind that as soon as I civilly ... (can) I ... (to get) up and leave him. But presently I ... (to have) an odd sensation, I hardly ... (to know) what ... (to cause) it, that he ... (to be) conscious of this and ... (to be) desperately anxious not to give me the opportunity. I ... (to be) surprised. I ... (to notice) that whenever I ... (to pause) he ... (to break) in with a new topic. He ... (to try) to find something to interest me so that I ... (to stay). He ... (to strain) every nerve to be agreeable. Surely he ... (can, not) be lonely; with his diplomatic connections he ... (must) know plenty of people with whom he ... (can, to spend) the evening. I ... (to wonder) indeed that he ... (not, to dine) at the Embassy; even though it ... (to be) summer there ... (must) be someone that he ... (to know). I ... (to notice) also that he never ... (to smile). <...>

He finished his dinner before me. He got up, but on his way out stopped at my table. He stretched out his hand. "How do you do?" he said. "I didn't recognize you when you first came in." <...>

It was evident that he knew me and evident too that he had no notion that I didn't also know him.

12. Presently I finished my dinner and went into the lounge. He was sitting in a large arm-chair and when he saw me he called the waiter. I sat down. The waiter came up and he ordered coffee and liqueurs. He spoke Italian very well. I was wondering by what means I could find out who he was without offending him. People are always a little disconcerted when you don't recognize them. <...> The excellence of his Italian recalled him to me. I remembered who he was and remembered at the same time that I didn't like him.

13. I couldn't surmise what had induced him to invite me to have coffee with him. It is true he was alone, but I should have supposed he found his thoughts excellent company, and I couldn't believe he imagined that I had anything to say that would interest him. Nevertheless I couldn't but see that he was doing his dreary best to be affable. He reminded me of where we had met last and we talked for a moment of common friends in London. He asked me how I came to be in Rome at this season and I told him. He volunteered the information that he had arrived from Brindisi. Our conversation didn't go easily and I made up my mind that as soon as I civilly could I would get up and leave him. But presently I had an odd sensation, I hardly knew what caused it, that he was conscious of this and was desperately anxious not to give me the opportunity. I was surprised. I noticed that whenever I paused he broke in with a new topic. He was trying to find something to interest me so that I would stay. He was straining every nerve to be agreeable. Surely he couldn't be lonely; with his diplomatic connexions he must know plenty of people with whom he could spend the evening. I wondered indeed that he was not dining at the Embassy; even though it was summer there must be someone that he knew. I noticed also that he never smiled. <...>

Though I ... (not, to like) him, though he ... (to mean) nothing to me and to be with him ... (to irk) me somewhat, I ... (to be) against my will a trifle interested. <...> I ... (to feel) very tired, but now I ... (to grow) alert. <...> I ... (to put) aside the thought that ... (to come) to me that he ... (to write) a play and ... (to want) my advice. <...> No, it ... (not, to be) that. A single man in Rome, of aesthetic leanings, ... (to be) liable to get into trouble, and I ... (to ask) myself whether he ... (to get) into some difficulty to extricate himself from which the Embassy ... (to be) the last place he ... (can) go to.

14. On getting home Elliot ... (to tell) Mrs. Bradley that Larry ... (to refuse) Henry Maturin's offer. Isabel ... (to lunch) with girl friends and ... (to come) in while they still ... (to talk) about it. They ... (to tell) her. I ... (to gather) from Elliot's account of the conversation that ... (to follow) that he ... (to express) himself with considerable eloquence. <...>

I don't know what Isabel ... (to answer) to all this, but she ... (to be) sensible enough to see that her elders ... (to have) reason on their side. All the young men of her acquaintance ... (to study) to enter some profession or already busy in the office. Larry ... (can) hardly expect to live the rest of his life on his distinguished record in the air corps. The war ... (to be) over, everyone ... (to be) sick of it and anxious only to forget about it as quickly as possible. The result of the discussion ... (to be) that Isabel ... (to agree) to have the matter out with Larry once and for all. Mrs. Bradley ... (to suggest) that Isabel should ask him to drive her down to Marvin. She ... (to order) new curtains for the living-room and ... (to mislay) the measurements, so she ... (to want) Isabel to take them again.

15. I ... (to know) her too little to say anything directly about what Elliot ... (to tell) me, but I ... (to have) something to say that I ... (to think) she ... (may) be glad to hear.

Though I didn't like him, though he meant nothing to me and to be with him irked me somewhat, I was against my will a trifle interested. <...> I had been feeling very tired, but now I grew alert. <...> I put aside the thought that had come to me that he had written (was writing) a play and wanted my advice. <...> No, it wasn't that. A single man in Rome, of aesthetic leanings, is liable to get into trouble, and I asked myself whether he had got into some difficulty to extricate himself from which the Embassy was the last place he could go to.

From W.S. Maugham "The Human Element"

14. On getting home Elliot told Mrs. Bradley that Larry had refused Henry Maturin's offer. Isabel had been lunching with girl friends and came in while they were still talking about it. They told her. I gathered from Elliot's account of the conversation that followed that he had expressed himself with considerable eloquence. <...>

I don't know what Isabel answered to all this, but she was sensible enough to see that her elders had reason on their side. All the young men of her acquaintance were studying to enter some profession or already busy in the office. Larry could hardly expect to live the rest of his life on his distinguished record in the air corps. The war was over, everyone was sick of it and anxious only to forget about it as quickly as possible. The result of the discussion was that Isabel agreed to have the matter out with Larry once and for all. Mrs. Bradley suggested that Isabel should ask him to drive her down to Marvin. She was ordering new curtains for the living-room and had mislaid the measurements, so she wanted Isabel to take them again.

15. I knew her too little to say anything directly about what Elliot had told me, but I had something to say that I thought she might be glad to hear.

"I ... (to see) your young man the other day in the club," I ... (to remark) casually. "Oh, ... you?"

She ... (to speak) as casually as I but I ... (to perceive) that she ... (to be) instantly alert. Her eyes ... (to grow) watchful and ... (to think) I ... (to read) in them something like apprehension.

"He ... (to read) in the library. I ... (to be) very much impress-by his power of concentration. He ... (to read) when I ... (to go) in soon after ten, he still ... (to read) when I ... (to go) back after lunch, and he ... (to read) when I ... (to go) in again on my way out to dinner. I ... (not, to believe) he ... (to move) from his chair for the best part of ten hours.

"What ... (he, to read)?"

"William James's Principles of Psychology."

She ... (to look) down so that I ... (to have) no means of knowing how what I ... (to say) ... (to affect) her, but I ... (to have) a notion that she ... (to be) at once puzzled and relieved. I was a that moment fetched by my host who ... (to want) me to play bridge and by the time the game ... (to break) up Isabel and he mother ... (to go).

16. I ... (not, to see) Elliot till he ... (to come) to London toward the end of June in the following year. I ... (to ask) him whether Larry after all ... (to go) to Paris. He ... (to have). I ... (to be) faintly amused at Elliot's exasperation with him.

"I had a kind of sneaking sympathy for the boy. I ... (can, not) blame him for wanting to spend a couple of years in Paris and I ... (to be) prepared to launch him. I ... (to tell) him to let me know the moment he arrived, but it ... (to be) only when Louisa ... (to write) and ... (to tell) me he ... (to be) there that I ... (to know) he ... (to come). I ... (to write) to him care of the American Express, which ... (to be) the address she ... (to give) me, and ... (to ask) him to come and dine to meet some of the people I ... (to think) he ... (ought) to know; I ... (to think) I ... (to try) him out with the Franco-American set <...>, and ... (you, to know) what he ... (to answer)? He ... (to say) he ... (to be) sorry he ... (can, not) come, but he ... (not, to bring) any evening clothes with him."...

"He ... (to reply) to my letter on a sheet of nasty paper with the heading of a cafe in the Latin Quarter and when I ... (to write) back I ... (to ask) him to let me know where he ... (to stay)).

"I saw your young man the other day in the club," I remarked casually. "Oh, did you?"

She spoke as casually as I had, but I perceived that she was instantly alert. Her eyes grew watchful and I thought I read in them something like apprehension.

"He was reading in the library. I was very much impressed by his power of concentration. He was reading when I went in soon after ten, he was still reading when I went back after lunch, and he was reading when I went in again on my way out to dinner. I don't believe he had moved from his chair for the best part of ten hours.

"What was he reading?"

"William James's Principles of Psychology."

She looked down so that I had no means of knowing how what I had said affected her, but I had a notion that she was at once puzzled and relieved. I was at that moment fetched by my host who wanted me to play bridge and by the time the game broke up Isabel and her mother had gone.

16. I didn't see Elliot till he came to London towards the end of June in the following year. I asked him whether Larry after all had gone to Paris. He had. I was faintly amused at Elliot's exasperation with him.

"He replied to my letter on a sheet of nasty paper with the heading of a cafe in the Latin Quarter and when I wrote back I asked him to let me know where he was staying.

I ... (to feel) I ... (must) do something about him for Isabel's sake, and I ... (to think) perhaps he ... (to be) shy — I ... (to mean) I ... (can, not) believe that any young fellow in his senses ... (can) come to Paris without evening clothes, and in any case there ... (to be) tolerable tailors there, so I ... (to ask) him to lunch and ... (to say) it ... (to be) quite a small party, and would you believe it, he ... (not, only, to ignore) my request to give me some other address than the American Express, but he ... (to say) he never ... (to eat) luncheon.

17. He ... (to be) curious to know about my journey in China and ... (to listen) attentively to what I ... (to tell) him; but when I ... (to try) to get him to talk about himself, I ... (to fail). He ... (to be) so uncommunicative that I ... (to be) forced to the conclusion that he ... (to ask) me to lunch with him merely to enjoy my company. I ... (to be) pleased, but baffled. We ... (no sooner/to finish) our coffee than he ... (to call) for the bill, ... (to pay) it, and ... (to get) up.

18. Mrs. Bradley ... (to tell) him then why they ... (to come) to Europe sooner than they at first ... (to intend). She ... (to find) herself in ill-health, and the doctors ... (to inform) her that she ... (to suffer) from diabetes. It ... (not, to be) serious, and by attention to her diet and taking moderate doses of insulin there ... (to be) no reason why she shouldn't live for a good many years, but the knowledge that she ... (to have) an incurable disease ... (to make) her anxious to see Isabel settled. They ... (to talk) the matter over. Isabel ... (to be) sensible. She ... (to agree) that if Larry ... (to refuse) to come back to Chicago at the end of the two years in Paris they ... (to agree) upon and get a job, there ... (to be) only one thing to do and that ... (to be) to break with him. But it ... (to offend) Mrs. Bradley's sense of personal dignity that they should wait till the appointed time and then come to fetch him, like a fugitive from justice, back to his own country. She ... (to feel) that Isabel ... (to put) herself in a humiliating position. But it ... (to be) very natural that they should spend summer in Europe, where Isabel ... (not, to be) since she ... (to be) a child. After their visit to Paris they ... (can) go to some watering-place suitable to Mrs. Bradley's complaint, then on to the Austrian Tyrol for a while and from there travel slowly through Italy.

I felt I must do something about him for Isabel's sake, and I thought perhaps he was shy — I mean I couldn't believe that any young fellow in his senses could come to Paris without evening clothes, and in any case there are tolerable tailors there, so I asked him to lunch and said it would be quite a small party, and would you believe it, he did not only ignore my request to give me some other address than the American Express, but he said he never ate luncheon.

17. He was curious to know about my journey in China and listened attentively to what I told him; but when I tried to get him to talk about himself, I failed. He was so uncommunicative that I was forced to the conclusion that he had asked me to lunch with him merely to enjoy my company. I was pleased, but baffled. We had no sooner finished our coffee than he called for the bill, paid it, and got up.

18. Mrs. Bradley told him then why they had come to Europe sooner than they had at first intended. She had found herself in ill-health, and the doctors had informed her that she was suffering from diabetes. It wasn't serious, and by attention to her diet and taking moderate doses of insulin there was no reason why she shouldn't live for a good many years, but the knowledge that she had an incurable disease made her anxious to see Isabel settled. They had talked the matter over. Isabel was sensible. She had agreed that if Larry refused to come back to Chicago at the end of the two years in Paris they had agreed upon and get a job, there was only one thing to do and that was to break with him. But it offended Mrs. Bradley's sense of personal dignity that they should wait till the appointed time and then come to fetch him, like a fugitive from justice, back to his own country. She felt that Isabel would put herself in a humiliating position. But it was very natural that they should spend summer in Europe, where Isabel hadn't been since she was a child. After their visit to Paris they could go to some watering-place suitable to Mrs. Bradley's complaint, then on to the Austrian Tyrol for a while and from there travel slowly through Italy.

Mrs. Bradley's intention ... (to be) to ask Larry to accompany them, so that he and Isabel ... (can) see whether the long separation ... (to leave) their feelings unchanged.

19. "Do they know who ... (to do) it?"

"No, but I do. I ... (to think) you ... (to kill) her."

She ... (to give) me a stare of amazement."

What ... (you, to talk) about?"...

"I ... (to run) across her at Toulon last summer. I ... (to have) a long talk with her."

"... (she, to be) sober?"

"Sufficiently. She ... (to tell) me how it ... (to happen) that she ... (to disappear) so unaccountably just a few days before she was going to be married to Larry."

I ... (to notice) Isabel's face stiffen. I ... (to proceed) to tell her exactly what Sophie ... (to tell) me. She ... (to listen) warily.

"I ... (to think) of her story a good deal since then and the more I ... (to think) about it the more convinced I ... (to be) that there ... (to be) something fishy about it. I ... (to lurch) here twenty times and you never ... (to have) liqueurs for luncheon. You ... (to lurch) alone. Why should there have been a bottle of zubrovka on the tray with the coffee cup?"

"Uncle Elliot just ... (to send) it to me. I ... (to want) to see if I ... (to like) it as much as when I ... (to have) it at the Ritz."

"Yes, I remember how you raved about it then. I ... (to be) surprised, as you never ... (to drink) liqueurs anyway; you ... (to be) much too careful of your figure for that. I ... (to have) at the time an impression that you ... (to try) to tantalize Sophie. I ... (to think) it ... (to be) just malice."

"Thank you."

"On the whole you ... (to be) very good at keeping appointments. Why should you have gone out when you ... (to expect) Sophie for something so important to her and interesting to you as a fitting of her wedding dress?"

Mrs. Bradley's intention was to ask Larry to accompany them, so that he and Isabel could see whether the long separation had left their feelings unchanged.

19. "Do they know who did it?"

"No, but I do. I think you killed her."

She gave me a stare of amazement.

"What are you talking about?"...

"I ran across her at Toulon last summer. I had a long talk with her."

"Was she sober?"

"Sufficiently. She told me how it happened that she had disappeared so unaccountably just a few days before she was going to be married to Larry."

I noticed Isabel's face stiffen. I proceeded to tell her exactly what Sophie had told me. She was listening warily.

"I've thought of her story a good deal since then and the more I've thought about it the more convinced I am that there is something fishy about it. I have lunched here twenty times and you never have liqueurs for luncheon. You had been lurching alone. Why should there have been a bottle of zubrovka on the tray with the coffee cup?"

"Uncle Elliot had just sent it to me. I wanted to see if I liked it as much as when I had had it at the Ritz."

"Yes, I remember how you raved about it then. I was surprised, as you never drink liqueurs anyway; you are much too careful of your figure for that. I had at the time an impression that you were trying to tantalize Sophie. I thought it was just malice."

"Thank you."

“She ... (to tell) you herself. I ... (not, to be) happy about Joan’s teeth. Our dentist ... (to be) very busy and I just ... (must) take the time he ... (can) give me.”

“... (can, not) the governess ... (to take) Joan?”

“She ... (to be) scared, poor darling, I ... (to feel) she ... (to be) happier if I ... (to go) with her.”

“And when you ... (to come) back and ... (to find) the bottle of zubrovka three parts empty and Sophie gone, ... (you, not, to be) surprised?”

“I ... (to think) she ... (to get) tired of waiting and ... (to go) on to Molyneux’s by herself. I ... (can, not) make it out when I ... (to go) there and they ... (to tell) me she ... (not, to be).”

“And the zubrovka?”

“Well, I did notice that a good deal had been drunk. I ... (to think) Antoine ... (to drink) it. But... he ... (to be) a very good servant and if he ... (to take) a little nip now and then who ... (I, to be) to blame him?”

20. “All right, if you ... (to want) the truth you can have it and to hell with you. I ... (to do) it and I would do it again. I ... (to notice) her watching the wine when the waiter ... (to fill) our glasses; <...> I ... (to know) she ... (to give) her soul for a drink.” <...>

“The idea ... (to come) to me when Uncle Elliot ... (to make) all that fuss about that damned Polish Liqueur. I ... (to think) it beastly, but I ... (to pretend) it ... (to be) the most wonderful stuff I ever ... (to taste). I ...

“She told you herself. I wasn’t happy about Joan’s teeth. Our dentist is very busy and I just had to take the time he could give me.”

“Couldn’t the governess have taken Joan?”

“She was scared, poor darling, I felt she would be happier if I went with her.”

“And when you came back and found the bottle of zubrovka three parts empty and Sophie gone, weren’t you surprised?”

“I thought she had got tired of waiting and gone on to Molyneux’s by herself. I couldn’t make it out when I went there and they told me she hadn’t been.”

- Он боялся, что дети попадут в беду.
- Дети понятия не имели, как выглядит Артур, так как у них никогда не было возможности его увидеть.
- Она не сомневалась в успехе вечеринки, так как сделала все возможное, но все же волновалась.
- Дети могли только удивляться, почему отец никогда не говорил об этом.
- Сначала Аттикус подумал, что это Джем убил Боба Юэлла.
- Он считал, что девочка просто старается привлечь таким образом внимание.
- Ей казалось, что он издевается над ней, и она расплакалась.
- Нам было ясно, что она выдумала эту историю, чтобы всех обмануть.

- He was afraid that the children would get into trouble.
- The children had no idea what Arthur looked like as they had never had a chance of seeing him.
- She didn't doubt (had no doubt about) the success of the party as she had done her best, but she was still worried (was still worrying).
- The children could only wonder why their father had never spoken about it.
- At first Atticus thought that it was Jem who had killed Bob Ewell.
- He was of the opinion that the girl was just trying to attract attention in such a way.
- It seemed to her that he was just mocking her and she burst out crying.
- It was clear to us that she had invented that story to deceive everybody.

9. Дилл пообещал Скаут, что когда он вырастет и у него будет состояние, он на ней женится.
10. Иногда он прерывал ее, чтобы уточнить, что именно она хотела сказать.
11. Казалось, не было сомнений, что он лжет и лгал раньше.
12. Всех впечатлили огромные усы незнакомца, и гости пытались угадать, откуда он.
13. «Когда я вернулся, сейф был открыт, а завещание исчезло», — повторил слуга. Все, что он только что рассказал, доказывало, что кто-то был заинтересован в смерти миссис Дейл. Было очевидно, что кто-то знал о его отсутствии в доме в то время и о том, где надо искать завещание.
14. Она боялась признаться в своем прошлом, потому что не знала, как он его воспримет.
15. Мэри рассказала ей, что Скиннеры, на которых работает ее кузина, обвинили ее в краже брошки и собираются ее уволить.
16. Глэдис клялась, что не имеет к краже никакого отношения.
17. Она боялась, что не сможет найти работу, так как весь город уже знал об истории с брошкой.
18. Она решила, что попытается убедить Скиннеров не увольнять девушку, а заодно разузнает, почему они так хотят избавиться от нее.
19. Всем было известно, что сестра Лавинии неизлечимо больна.
20. Весь городок считал, что Лавиния совершила ошибку, ей не следовало увольнять Глэдис, так как ей не удастся достаточно быстро найти сиделку. Естественно, все удивились, когда Скиннеры нашли ее практически сразу и были ею очень довольны.
21. Ее аргументы были настолько невероятны, что инспектору в голову пришла мысль, что она сошла с ума.
22. Полиция считала, что дело безнадежно, так как год назад нечто похожее произошло в Нортумберленде, и преступники остались безнаказанными.
23. Она посоветовала Лавинии быть осторожной, но та сделала вид, что не понимает, что мисс Марпл имеет в виду.
24. Мисс Марпл готова была держать пари, что это Скиннеры обокрали соседей.
25. Она пришла к выводу, что новая сиделка и сестра Лавинии — одно и то же лицо.

9. Dill promised Scout that when he grew up and had a fortune, he would marry her.
10. He sometimes interrupted her to make sure what exactly she had meant.
11. There seemed to be no doubt that he was lying and had been lying before.
12. Everybody was impressed by the stranger's enormous moustaches and the guests were trying to guess where he was from.
13. "When I returned, the safe was open and the will had disappeared," the servant repeated. Everything he had just said proved that somebody had been interested in Mrs. Dale's death. It was obvious that somebody had known about his absence from the house at that time and also about where they had to look for the will.
14. She was afraid to confess her past as she didn't know how he would take it.
15. Mary told her that the Skinners, her cousin was working for, had accused her of stealing a brooch and were going to fire her.
16. Gladys swore, that she had nothing to do with the robbery.
17. She was afraid that she wouldn't be able to find a job as the whole town already knew about the story with the brooch.
18. She decided that she would try to persuade the Skinners not to fire the girl and would find out why they were eager to get rid of her.
19. Everybody knew that Lavinia's sister was incurably ill.
20. The whole town believed that Lavinia had made a mistake, that she shouldn't have fired Gladys as she wouldn't manage to find a good nurse soon enough. Naturally everybody was surprised when the Skinners had found her almost at once and were quite content with her.
21. Her arguments were so incredible that it occurred to the inspector that she had gone mad.
22. The police thought that the case was hopeless as something like that had happened in Northumberland a year before and the criminals had got away with it.
23. She advised Lavinia to be careful but the latter pretended not to understand what Miss Marple meant.
24. Miss Marple was ready to bet that it was the Skinners who had robbed their neighbours.
25. She came to the conclusion that the new nurse and Lavinia's sister were one and the same person.

1. Почтмейстер был явно раздражен, и Ватсон решил, что продолжать разговор бесполезно. Было ясно, что уловка Холмса ни к чему не привела, и они так и не узнают, приезжал ли Бэримор в Лондон или нет. Ватсон вышел на улицу, размышляя об обстоятельствах дела. Он снова вспомнил о странном письме, которое сэр Генри получил по прибытии в Лондон. Неужели это письмо послал Бэримор? А может быть, это сделал кто-то другой, кто пытается помочь сэру Генри? Непонятно. Правда, сэр Генри попытался дать объяснение всему этому: если Баскервильям придется уехать из поместья, Бэриморы смогут там жить до конца дней своих.

2. Несомненно, Бэриморы были очень странной парой. Их поведение, особенно мистера Бэримора, было подозрительно. Когда Ватсон поделился своими мыслями с сэром Генри, оказалось, что он тоже несколько раз видел, как Бэримор ходит по дому со свечой. Они решили выяснить, зачем он это делает. Той же ночью они просидели в комнате сэра Генри несколько часов и чуть не уснули, когда услышали шаги в коридоре. Они последовали за Бэримором. Он зашел в ту же комнату, где его уже видел Ватсон. Когда они заглянули туда, Бэримор стоял у окна. Ватсон и сэр Генри не договаривались, как будут действовать. Сэр Генри ворвался в комнату. Было совершенно очевидно, что Бэримор напуган: он весь дрожал и не мог сказать ни слова. Сэр Генри пригрозил, что, если Бэримор не объяснит ему, что он здесь делал, и почему он ходит сюда каждую ночь, он уволит и его и его жену.

3. Сначала Лора Лайенс отказывалась отвечать на вопросы Шерлока Холмса. «Я действительно написала сэру Чарльзу, так как он мне часто помогал, и я надеялась, что сможет помочь и в этот раз. Но я не была у калитки в назначенное время, так как получила помощь от другого человека. Вот и все».

Но Шерлок Холмс доказал ей, что мистер Стэплтон женат, и Лора Лайенс согласилась все рассказать, поняв, что Стэплтон обманывал ее все эти годы.

1. The postman was obviously annoyed and Watson decided that it was no use continuing the conversation. It was clear that Holmes' trick hadn't led to anything (had led to nothing) and they wouldn't find out whether Barrymore had gone to London or not. Watson went outside thinking over the circumstances of the case. He remembered again about the strange letter Sir Henry had received on his arrival in London. Could (Can) Barrymore have sent it? Or perhaps, someone else had done it, someone who was trying to help Sir Henry? It wasn't clear. But Sir Henry had tried to give an explanation of all that: if the Baskervilles had to leave the estate the Barrymores would be able to live there till their death.

2. It was no doubt that the Barrymores were a very strange couple. Their behaviour, especially that of Mr. Barrymore, was suspicious. When Watson shared his thoughts with Sir Henry, it turned out that the latter had also seen Barrymore walking about the house with a candle several times. They decided to find out why he did it. That very night they had been sitting in Sir Henry's room for several hours and had nearly fallen asleep when they heard steps in the hall. They followed Barrymore. He entered the room where Watson had already seen him. When they looked in, Barrymore was standing at the window. Watson and Sir Henry hadn't agreed how they would act. Sir Henry rushed into the room. It was quite obvious that Barrymore was frightened: he was trembling all over and couldn't say a word. Sir Henry threatened that if he didn't explain to him what he had been doing there and why he went there every night, he would fire both him and his wife.

3. At first Laura Lyons refused to answer Sherlock Holmes' questions. "I really wrote to Sir Charles as he had often helped me and I hoped he would be able to help me that time too. But I was not at the gate at the appointed time as I had got help from another person. That's all."

But Sherlock Holmes proved to her that Mr. Stapleton was married and Laura Lyons agreed to tell him everything seeing that Stapleton had been deceiving her all those years.

- Это Стэплтон сказал вам написать письмо сэру Чарльзу?
- Да, он его продиктовал.
- Как он убедил вас не ходить туда после того, как вы послали письмо?
- Он сказал, что не сможет уважать самого себя, если деньги даст кто-то другой. Он поклялся, что несмотря ни на что отдаст последнее пенни, чтобы помочь мне развестись с мужем.
- А как он повел себя после смерти сэра Чарльза?
- Он сказал, что сэр Чарльз умер при весьма загадочных обстоятельствах, и, если полиция узнает о письме, меня будут подозревать. Его слова напугали меня, и я решила ничего не говорить.

4. «Наконец-то, Ватсон! С тех пор как вы уехали, я сижу дома. Мне это до смерти наскучило. Пока вас не было, Стэплтон пригласил меня на обед, но я не пошел, так как пообещал вам не выходить из дома. Вы не должны были оставлять меня одного!»

Сэр Генри был также рад увидеть Шерлока Холмса. Он был уверен, что он обязательно придет после того, как Ватсон написал ему обо всем, что случилось в поместье. Он очень удивился, что у Шерлока Холмса нет багажа и что он не собирается оставаться надолго.

Пока Ватсон рассказывал сэру Генри о том, как погиб Селден, Шерлок Холмс разглядывал портреты Баскервилей на стенах столовой.

5. Ватсон не обратил внимания на вопросы Шерлока Холмса о фамильных портретах, так как знал, что он интересуется искусством. Но когда сэр Генри ушел спать, Холмс взял свечу и попросил Ватсона внимательно посмотреть на портрет Хьюго Баскервиля. Ватсон не заметил ничего особенного, но когда Шерлок Холмс закрыл руками шляпу и длинные волосы, Ватсон вскрикнул от изумления: на него смотрел Стэплтон.

- Was it Stapleton who told you to write the letter?
- Yes, he dictated it.
- How did he persuade you not to go there after you had sent the letter?
- He said he wouldn't be able to respect himself if anybody else gave the money. He swore that in spite of anything he would give the last penny to help me to divorce my husband.
- And how did he behave after Sir Charles' death?
- He said that Sir Charles had died under quite mysterious circumstances and if the police learnt about the letter, they would suspect me. His words frightened me and I decided not to tell them anything.

4. "Oh, Watson, here you are at last! Since you left I've been staying at home. I'm bored to death. While you were out, Stapleton asked me to dinner but I didn't go as I had promised you not to leave the house. You shouldn't have left me alone!"

Sir Henry was also glad to see Sherlock Holmes. He had been sure that the latter would certainly come after Watson had written to him about everything that had happened in the estate. He was very surprised that Sherlock Holmes had no luggage and was not going to stay there long.

While Watson was telling Sir Henry how Selden had died, Sherlock Holmes studied the Baskervilles' portraits on the walls of the dining-room.

5. Watson didn't pay attention to Holmes' questions about the family portraits as he knew that Holmes was interested in art. But when Sir Henry went to sleep, Sherlock Holmes took a candle and asked Watson to look attentively at Hugo Baskerville's portrait. Watson didn't notice anything special but when Holmes covered the hat and the long hair with his hands, Watson cried out with amazement: Stapleton was looking at him.

«Теперь все понятно, — заявил Холмс. — Стэплтон — тоже Баскервиль и хочет убить сэра Генри, чтобы получить наследство. Клянусь, что завтра к полуночи мы его поймем с поличным. Я уже продумал план».

Единственная загадка в этом деле, которую Шерлок Холмс так и не разгадал, — это как Стэплтон собирался доказать, что он тоже Баскервиль, после того как столько лет лгал.

“Now everything is clear,” said Holmes. “Stapleton is also a Baskerville and he wants to kill Sir Henry to get the inheritance. I swear, we’ll have caught him red-handed by tomorrow midnight. I’ve already thought of a plan.”

The only mystery that Sherlock Holmes hadn’t solved in that case was how Stapleton was going to prove that he was also a Baskerville after he had been lying for so many years.

20.2 КОНСТРУКЦИИ: Прямая пассивная конструкция

Прямое дополнение конструкции в активном залоге становится подлежащим конструкции в страдательном залоге. С указанными глаголами возможна только такая конструкция.

The teacher explained a new rule to the students.
A new rule was explained to the students.

She will introduce her husband to us.
Her husband will be introduced to us.

The Indirect Passive

The direct or the indirect object of the active construction become the subject of the passive construction. After the following verbs these two constructions are possible.

to give to offer
to pay
to promise to send to show
to tell

The Prepositional Passive

The prepositional object of the active construction becomes the subject of the passive construction. The preposition retains its place after the verb. The most common verbs are the following.

to agree on (to)	to send for
to invite to	to speak about (of)
to laugh at	to talk about (of)
to listen to	to think about (of)
to look at (through)	to wait for

Косвенная пассивная конструкция

Прямое или косвенное дополнение конструкции в активном залоге становятся подлежащим конструкции в страдательном залоге. С перечисленными глаголами возможны эти две конструкции.

They have just offered me a new job.
I've just been offered a new job.
A new job has just been offered to me.

He was given the letter at once.
The letter was given to him at once.

They'll tell you the news.
You 'll be told the news.
The news will be told to you.

Предложная пассивная конструкция

Предложное дополнение конструкции в активном залоге становится подлежащим конструкции в пассивном залоге. Предлог сохраняет свое место после глагола. Наиболее часто употребляются перечисленные глаголы.

They are waiting for us at the theatre.
We are being waited for at the theatre.

They always speak of him with great respect.

1. The Man who Took Notice of Notices

My uncle Tom used to work on the railway. It was a little place called Lowton Cross. Only about two trains a day stopped there, and Tom was station-master, chief porter and signal man all in one; in fact Tom did any work that came along, and there wasn't a happier man in the whole of England. Lowton Cross was the pride of his heart; the waiting-room was cleaned every day by the chief cleaner (Tom); the chairs were polished by the chief polisher (Tom); and the tickets were sold and collected by the chief ticket-collector (Tom), — sometimes there were as many as four tickets a day; — and the money was counted every evening by the chief clerk (Tom). One day, there was £13.1.8, the biggest amount that was ever taken in one day during the whole 50 years that Tom was there.

The station was run well: Tom was very strict about "rules". He knew what a passenger was allowed to do and what he wasn't allowed to do, where he was allowed to smoke and where he was not allowed to smoke. And if any passenger dared to do anything that was against the rules, there was trouble at Lowton Cross.

He was there for 50 years and then he had to retire. There was no doubt that Tom had done his job well; in all the 50 years he had been there, he had never missed a single day; every day he had been on duty. Well, the Railway Company thought they ought to do something to recognize this, and so a little "farewell ceremony" was arranged, and a man from the head office, Sir Joseph Binks, was asked to go to Lowton Cross for the ceremony.

Tom was thanked and was given a small cheque as a present. He was very pleased, of course, but he said to Sir Joseph, "I don't need the money" (Tom had always been careful and had saved quite a nice amount of money), "but can I have, instead, something that will remind me of the happy days I have spent here in Lowton Cross?"

Sir Joseph was rather surprised but he (to say) he ... (to think) it ... (can, to arrange); what kind of reminder Tom ... (to have) in mind? So Tom said, "Well, sir, could the company ... (to let) me have a part of an old railway carriage, just one compartment? It ... (not, to matter) how old or broken it is; I can repair it and clean it — I ... (to have) plenty of time now that I ... (to retire). I want to put it in my back garden, and every day I can go and sit in it, and that ... (to remind) me of Lowton Cross."

Sir Joseph thought, "Poor old fellow, his mind ... (to fail), but we have some old railway carriages that are only fit for breaking up," so he said, "Well, Mr. Hobdell, if that's what you want, you'll have it." And about a week later a carriage, or rather a compartment, ... (to send) and ... (to take) into Tom's back garden. Tom ... (to work) at it just as he ... (to work) at Lowton Cross. It ... (to clean) and ... (to paint) and ... (to polish), and in a week or so it... (to look) very nice.

One day, about a year after Tom ... (to retire), I ... (to stay) with Uncle Albert (that's Tom's brother) and he said, "Come on, Hob, let's go and visit old Tom. I ... (not/to see) him for a long time." It was a bad day for a visit. It ... (to begin) to rain as we ... (to get off) the train, and by the time we ... (to get) to Tom's house it ... (to rain) hard. We ... (to walk) up the path to the front door and Uncle Albert ... (to knock), but there ... (to be) no answer. However, the door ... (not, to lock) so Uncle Albert ... (to open) it and we ... (to go in). Tom was nowhere to be seen, and Albert said, "He'll be in that old railway carriage of his; we'll go out at the back." Sure enough he ... (to be) there, but he ... (not, to sit) IN the carriage; he was outside, on the step of the carriage, smoking his pipe. His head ... (to cover) with a sack and the rain ... (to run) down his back.

"Hello, Tom," said Uncle Albert, "why on earth ... (you, to sit) there; why don't you go INSIDE the carriage out of the rain?"

"Can't you see?" said Tom, "the carriage they ... (to send) me ... (to be) a non-smoker!"

Sir Joseph was rather surprised but he said he thought it could be arranged; what kind of reminder did Tom have in mind? So Tom said, "Well, sir, could the company let me have a part of an old railway carriage, just one compartment? It doesn't matter how old or broken it is; I can repair it and clean it — I shall have plenty of time now that I have retired. I want to put it in my back garden, and every day I can go and sit in it, and that will remind me of Lowton Cross."

Sir Joseph thought, "Poor old fellow, his mind is failing, but we have some old railway carriages that are only fit for breaking up," so he said, "Well, Mr. Hobdell, if that's what you want, you'll have it." And about a week later a carriage, or rather a compartment, was sent and was taken into Tom's back garden. Tom worked at it just as he had worked at Lowton Cross. It was cleaned and painted and polished, and in a week or so it looked very nice.

One day, about a year after Tom had retired, I was staying with Uncle Albert (that's Tom's brother) and he said, "Come on, Hob, let's go and visit old Tom. I haven't seen him for a long time." It was a bad day for a visit. It began to rain as we got off the train, and by the time we got to Tom's house it was raining hard. We walked up the path to the front door and Uncle Albert knocked, but there was no answer. However, the door wasn't locked so Uncle Albert opened it and we went in. Tom was nowhere to be seen, and Albert said, "He'll be in that old railway carriage of his; we'll go out at the back." Sure enough he was there, but he wasn't sitting IN the carriage; he was outside, on the step of the carriage, smoking his pipe. His head was covered with a sack and the rain was running down his back.

"Hello, Tom," said Uncle Albert, "why on earth are you sitting there; why don't you go INSIDE the carriage out of the rain?"

"Can't you see?" said Tom, "the carriage they sent me was a non-smoker!"

In its shape and size the present chamber is almost a replica of Barry's, though its decoration is less ornate, and larger galleries have been provided for visitors.

3. One evening after dinner my friend and I were sitting in his rooms. After being invalided out of the Army I had been given a recruiting job, and it had become my custom to drop in on Poirot in the evenings after dinner and talk with him of any cases of interest that he might have on hand.

I was attempting to discuss with him the sensational news of that day — no less than an attempted assassination of Mr. David MacAdam, England's Prime Minister. The account in the papers had evidently been carefully censored. No details were given, save that the Prime Minister had had a marvellous escape, the bullet just grazing his cheek.

Poirot was about to say something when the landlady thrust her head round the door and informed him that there were two gentlemen who wanted to see him. "They didn't give their names, sir, but they say it is very important."

In a few minutes the two visitors ... (to usher) in, and my heart ... (to give) a leap as I ... (to recognize) Lord Estair, Leader of the House of Commons, and Mr. Bernard Dodge, who ... (to be) also a member of the War Cabinet, and, as I ... (to know) a close personal friend of the Prime Minister.

The former said, "Monsieur Poirot, I ... (to come) to consult you upon a matter of the most vital urgency. I ... (must) ask for absolute secrecy. It ... (to concern) the Prime Minister. We ... (to be) in grave trouble."

"The injury ... (to be) serious, then?" I asked.

"What injury?"

"The bullet wound."

"That affair ... (to be) over and done with. Luckily, it ... (to fail). I wish I could say as much for the second attempt."

"There ... (to be) a second attempt, then?"

"Yes, though not of the same nature. Monsieur Poirot, the Prime Minister ... (to disappear)."

"What?"

"He ... (to kidnap)!"...

Poirot ... (to look) at Mr. Dodge. "You ... (to say) just now that the matter ... (to be) urgent and time ... (to be) everything. What ... (you, to mean) by that?"

The two men ... (to exchange) glances, and then Lord Estair ... (to say):

"... (you, to hear), Monsieur Poirot, of the approaching Allied Conference?"

My friend ... (to nod).

"For obvious reasons, no details ... (to give) of when and where it ... (must) take place. But, although it ... (to keep) out of the newspapers, the date of course ... (to know) widely in diplomatic circles. The Conference ... (must, to hold) tomorrow — Thursday-evening at Versailles. I ... (not, to conceal) from you that the Prime Minister's presence at the Conference ... (to be) of vital necessity. We ... (to have) no one who ... (can, to send) in his place." <...>

In a few minutes the two visitors were ushered in, and my heart gave a leap as I recognized Lord Estair, Leader of the House of Commons, and Mr. Bernard Dodge, who was also a member of the War Cabinet, and, as I knew a close personal friend of the Prime Minister.

The former said, "Monsieur Poirot, I have come to consult you upon a matter of the most vital urgency. I must ask for absolute secrecy. It concerns the Prime Minister. We are in grave trouble."

"The injury is serious, then?" I asked.

"What injury?"

"The bullet wound."

"Oh, that! That affair is over and done with. Luckily, it failed. I wish I could say as much for the second attempt."

"There has been a second attempt, then?"

"Yes, though not of the same nature. Monsieur Poirot, the Prime Minister has disappeared."

"What?"

"He has been kidnapped!"...

Poirot looked at Mr. Dodge. "You said just now that the matter was urgent and time was everything. What did you mean by that?"

The two men exchanged glances, and then Lord Estair said:

"Have you heard, Monsieur Poirot, of the approaching Allied Conference?"

My friend nodded.

"For obvious reasons, no details have been given of when and where it is to take place. But, although it has been kept out of the newspapers, the date is, of course, widely known in diplomatic circles. The Conference is to be held tomorrow — Thursday-evening at Versailles. I won't conceal from you that the Prime Minister's presence at the Conference is of vital necessity. We have no one who can be sent in his place." <...>

Poirot ... (to ask) for the details of the abduction.

"It ... (to take place) in France. Mr. MacAdam ... (to cross) to France this morning. He ... (must) stay tonight as the guest of the Commander-in-Chief, proceeding tomorrow to Paris. He ... (to convey) across the Channel by destroyer. At Boulogne he ... (to meet) by a car from General Headquarters and one of the Commander-in-Chiefs A.D.C.s."

"Eh bien?"

"Well, they ... (to start) from Boulogne — but they never ... (to arrive). <...> It ... (to be) a bogus car and a bogus A.D.C. The real car ... (to find) in a side road, with the chauffeur and the A.D.C. neatly gagged and bound. <...> And the bogus car ... (to be) still at large."

Poirot ... (to make) a gesture of impatience. "Incredible!"

"It ... (to be), as you say, incredible — but nothing ... (to discover) yet! <...> The Prime Minister ... (to hold) somewhere secretly by the kidnappers!"

ПРАКТИКУМ ПО ГРАММАТИКЕ АНГЛИЙСКОГО ЯЗЫКА —

это общий курс английской грамматики, позволяющий:

- ♦ сформировать грамматическую компетенцию;
- ♦ систематизировать ранее полученные знания английского языка;
- ♦ организовать работу дома и в аудитории;
- ♦ расширить словарный запас и развить коммуникативные навыки.

Пособие подходит для:

- ♦ учащихся школ, колледжей, лицеев, слушателей курсов, преподавателей;
- ♦ лиц, изучающих английский язык самостоятельно.

ПРАКТИКУМ ПО ГРАММАТИКЕ АНГЛИЙСКОГО ЯЗЫКА

Зверховская Елена Владимировна, доцент кафедры второго иностранного языка педагогических факультетов Московского государственного лингвистического университета (МГЛУ), педагогический стаж более 20 лет. Соавтор книг «Секреты английской грамматики» и «Грамматика английского языка. Теория. Практика».

Косиченко Елена Федоровна, кандидат филологических наук, доцент, профессор кафедры второго иностранного языка педагогических факультетов МГЛУ, педагогический стаж более 20 лет. Соавтор пособий для преподавателей и студентов «Expand Your Horizons», соавтор книг «Секреты английской грамматики» и «Грамматика английского языка. Теория. Практика», автор более 30 научных публикаций.

Предлагаемый практикум по грамматике английского языка является одновременно кратким систематическим справочником, содержащим объяснения правил употребления грамматики, и сборником упражнений. Особенностью книги является ее структура, в соответствии с которой левая сторона разворота содержит правила и упражнения, а правая — примеры, иллюстрирующие употребление правил, и ключи к упражнениям. основополагающим принципом построения книги выступает опора на родной язык, что делает работу с грамматикой более эффективной и предупреждает возникновение типичных ошибок.

Начало каждого раздела предваряют таблицы, в которых схематично изложены основные положения соответствующей грамматической темы, что дает возможность учащимся повторить правило прежде, чем приступить к выполнению упражнений. Параллельно таблицам на правом развороте книги даны примеры использования этого правила. В конце отдельных тематических разделов помещен урок на повторение, содержащий упражнения повышенной трудности, которые могут быть использованы для закрепления изученных тем и контроля. Универсальность пособия-справочника и наличие ключей к упражнениям позволяет эффективно использовать его как для групповых, так и для индивидуальных занятий.
